GOULD PUSHED; TAKES ST. JOHNSBURY, 21-13

The Gould Academy Huskies treated a large Parents' Day crowd to a thrill as they allowed the visiting Vermonters to come within one point of a tie in the third period. Gould started strong by scoring first in the first period. Dick Marshall, playing the best ball of his career set up the first TD with 35 and 7 1/2 yard dashes. Charlie Smith crashed over from the one yard line for the first score.

Early in the second stanza Howe intercepted a pass at midfield and carried to the St. J. 46 yard line. In just two plays Gould scored again. A pass from Smith to Marshall was good for 41 yards and another score. Hamilton kicked both extra points and the home team looked headed for an easy victory with a 14 to 0 lead.

St. J. however came back strong lead by their star, Peppin, and ably assisted by Simpson. They took the kickoff to their own 38 yard line and then marched the remaining 64 yard line to score. Peppin scored both the T and D and the extra point, leaving the half time score at 14-7.

During the third period the visitors outplayed the Huskies and sent a scare into the crowd as they marched for another score which came on the second play of the final quarter. The extra point was missed and Gould's margin stood at 14-13. The home forces, however, rallied. Taking the kickoff they marched 64 yards without losing the ball to clinch the victory. A 17 yard jaunt by Smith helped set up the score and Marshall gained five and four yards to finally score. Hamilton's trusty toe accounted for the final marker although it had to bound over the cross bar.

This week the "Blue and Gold" eleven travels to Lyndonville to take on the strong Lyndon Institute team.

Dr. Matheson will be at study October 16-30 and Dr. Boynton will hold all office hours at this time.

The home of Mr and Mrs Millard Clough on Mill Hill was badly damaged Tuesday noon by a fire which destroyed the adjoining barn and shed. The fire evidently was started by an explosion in the barn and the firemen were at the scene promptly and did excellent work, but the barn and shed were destroyed and much damage done by fire and water in the house. The greater part of the household furnishings were saved although the volunteer workers were handicapped by heavy smoke.

Included in the loss were $500 worth of paint besides ladders and painting equipment. Two pigs in the barn basement were saved by continued spraying until an opening was made to allow their escape into the house cellar.

The loss is covered partially by insurance. It is interesting to learn that the property has been insured for 70 years with W J Wheeler and W J Wheeler & Co. of South Paris.

CHIEF ASKS HOME FIRE SAFETY CHECK

A single afternoon or evening will be enough time to rid your home of the most common fire hazards, Fire Chief Robert M. Blake said today in urging local citizens to join in the nation-wide observation of Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 9 to 15.

"The first step is to clean out the cellar," the Chief said. "Most families have stacks of old magazines, piles of discarded clothing, and even pieces of furniture stuck away down there."

"All it takes is a spark from the furnace, or a defect in the wiring, or a carelessly dropped cigarette to start a fire in the cellar. Once it is started, it is particularly difficult to bring under control if those piles of fast-burning paper, cloth, and wood are there to supply fuel."

Cellar Is Danger Spot

The National Board of Fire Underwriters estimates that one out of every three home fires begins in the cellar, the Chief said.

"The next step is to clean out the attic, which is another danger spot," he said. "By cleaning up your home this week, you may keep it from burning up next week."

The Chief also suggested these "Seven Steps to Fire Safety":

1. Have the complete heating system inspected, cleaned, and repaired by an experienced repairman.

2. Provide covered metal containers for ashes and trash.

3. Avoid hanging extension cords over bare walls or running them under rugs, as this causes dangerous wear. Replace worn extension cords.

4. Always call in an experienced electrician for necessary home wiring, because "home handymen" have been responsible for many fires traced to faulty wiring.

Keep Motors Cleaned and Oiled

5. Oil and clean motors of electric appliances, and check to be sure that belts are in proper condition. (This does not apply to refrigerators which have sealed-in motors.)

6. Place a metal screen in front of the fireplace, to guard against flying sparks and hot ashes.

7. Never clean with gasoline—it's dangerous. Fire experts suggest that cleaning be sent out. If you must clean at home, use cleaning fluids bearing the U. I. label of Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.

In addition to these specific steps, the Chief emphasized that "careless handling of cigarettes and matches is still the No. 1 fire cause."

He said that the National Board of Fire Underwriters estimates that nearly a third of all fire, in homes, factories, forests, and elsewhere, are caused by careless smokers. "This week and every week, you should make certain cigarettes are out before throwing them away, avoid tossing cigarettes or matches into waste baskets, and especially make certain that no member of your family ever smokes in bed."

School Lunches To Begin Nov. 1—Plans Announced

School lunches will begin on Tuesday, Nov. 1st. The program will be conducted much the same as last year. Federal subsidy will be received and Federal regulations adhered to. This means we shall serve the same to all regardless of their ability to pay none, a part, or a whole of the cost. Another regulation is that milk must be served with each meal.

Those not taking the full lunch may have just milk alone at 5c per day, served either at recess or noon, and —NOTE: only ONE 1/4 pint of milk will be allowed each day to each student whether participating in the full program or taking milk alone.

The cost of the full lunch will be 20c per meal to start, and we hope it will not be necessary to raise this price. The one thing which might cause this to be increased would be an increase in the number of free meals. Last year we started with about 175 meals with an average of 35 of them free, about 20% and seemingly too many. This changed to 160 served and 45 FREE at the close of the program. This is entirely too many free meals and it is known that the present program would not be able to operate long under these conditions.

So here a word about free meals.

It seems strange to us that parents of children bringing a reasonably good lunch to school, which must have cost at least 5 to 10c, find themselves unable to pay ANYTHING once the school lunch starts. In other words, any parent unless they receive aid from the town, should be able to make a partial payment, such as 5, 10, or 15c per meal. So we are looking to you to do the best you can and be fair about it. The benefit of this lunch to your child should be of considerable importance to you.

Any child who attends the village schools may take this lunch, but we hardly expect to give FREE lunches to any who living in the village ordinarily go home to dinner, except of course those receiving aid from the town.

As payment for lunches we will again accept a certain amount of such commodities as potatoes, dry beans, butter, salt pork, some kinds of vegetables, etc. Don't bring commodities until you check with the teacher to see if they are needed and acceptable at that time.

It is the intention of this program to give your child a warm nutritious lunch at as low a cost as possible. The cooperation of all of you will help keep this cost down. Any "profit" in the program must be turned back into improving the facilities, the type of meal, or in reducing the cost per pupil. Please do your best to make this program a growing benefit to your child.

BETHEL WARDEN SHOT WHILE QUESTIONING STRANGER IN GILEAD

Roland C Abbott, Bethel game warden, was shot through the kidney Friday afternoon by a man whom he and Deputy Sheriff Albert Grover of Bethel were questioning in a gravel pit near the Peabody farm in Gilead. The man, identified as William F Howe of Portland, had aroused Abbott's suspicions for some time and he accompanied Grover for a further investigation.

When the officers arrived Howe was in the pit scooping dirt with his hands. Abbott was shot when they asked for identification other than his license and car registration. Although Grover grappled with the man he got away and when he reached the road shot a hole in one of the deputy sheriff's tires. In the scuffle the man lost his shoes, and fled in a gray 1935 Ford sedan toward Gilead village.

Warden Roland C. Abbott

Abbott was taken to the Rumford hospital, where his condition is reported good.

Road blocks were set up and cars answering the description were reported in several places. It was found that he had lived at the gravel pit several days, buying groceries at Bethel and Gilead. Excavations at the gravel pit Saturday morning brought forth several boxes containing bodies of cats and a dog. It was later reported that Howe, who had been a patient at the Augusta State Hospital in 1936, had studied surgery and planned to operate on a pet cat.

Sought with a warrant charging assault with intent to kill, Howe was believed to have been seen in northern New Hampshire, and a widespread search was conducted there and in Canada.

It is reported that Howe was killed in a man hunt at Little Genesee in southwestern New York Tuesday when he was cornered in a road block and tried to escape in a police car. Previously he had helped up a police chief, taken his revolver and escaped in his car at Cuba, N. Y., and wounded two policemen. Deputy Sheriff Grover and State Police Officer Lawrence Sanders left Wednesday to identify the remains.

Production: Our Heritage

What is the secret of our American productive system? This system was no accident. We have it today because of definite policies adopted by our forefathers. While they did not know how far these policies would lead us, nor foresee the achievements that would come, nevertheless they did put high value upon the policies. There are four steps which support the foundation of our unique productivity—our great American heritage.

First, there is freedom of individual opportunity. European experiences led our forefathers to place great value upon freedom. They faced the dangers of the Atlantic and the American wilderness to carve out a new home where there would be freedom. On this new continent they made a Republic. They did everything that could be done through the Constitution and Bill of Rights to guarantee freedom of individual opportunity for themselves and their posterity.

Total Brain Power

Whether they realized it or not, this was the only way for any nation to draw upon the total brain capacity of the entire population. The productive system developed, then, as the result of the thinking of the entire population. That's why we have 10 million independent economic units in America: 6 million farm units and 4 million industrial units. This freedom of individual opportunity has given us a dynamic economy which would be impossible through any other means.

In the second place, we have assured freedom of competition. All the dreamers compete with each other. That's why 1,000 companies have been organized in America during 53 years to make cars. Only 11 remain, and they're not the ones that had the blessing of government but are the ones that have succeeded in giving the best product for the money. So, seven per cent of the world's population living in America drives four times as many cars as the rest of the world.

Good Management

Third, we have achieved full efficiency. American management is praised around the world for unparalleled efficiency. This has been the natural result of freedom of individual opportunity and freedom of competition. Only the efficient managers were able to conduct a business, with the result that the American public can buy goods at lower prices than anywhere else in the world. The premium is on efficiency.

Freedom of individual opportunity, freedom to compete with the dreamers, and keen, efficient management have led to a fourth step: high investment in tools. There is $4,000 invested in plant, tools, and inventory for every job in the automobile industry, $18,000 for every job in the DuPont Company, $50,000 for every job in the railroad industry, and about $60,000 invested for every job in the utility industry.

Tools Mean Better Living

Even in agriculture it requires more than $4,000 invested in land and equipment to make a farm job. There is an average of at least $7,500 invested for every job in America, including agricultural jobs. The value of this investment cannot be overlooked without jeopardizing our future. This investment has paid off. Fifty years ago a man worked all day in an automobile factory to make the top half of a gasoline tank. He received $1.00 a day.

Now, a workman steps up to an efficient machine in a well lighted and ventilated plant, pulls a small lever, and the machine turns out the top half of a gasoline tank in one minute. The workman earns $10.00 a day, because of greater

"HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"
See Other's Point of View

HERE'S HOW ONE MAN who was bitter against the entire newspaper profession was won over by a reporter named Douglas Welch, who accomplished it by one of the most simple and most easily applied techniques in the world: he looked at a situation from the other man's point of view.

CARNEGIE

The famous engineer, Leon Moseff built an important bridge, the bridge across the Tacoma Narrows, third longest suspension bridge in the world, costing six and a half million dollars. Now an engineer, the same as you or I, can have things go wrong, can suffer terribly over mistakes, even though they may be the mistakes of those working under him.

Something went wrong with that bridge. You may recall having seen the death agonies of this bridge at the time it swayed and buckled in the wind as though it had been made of thin wooden veneer. Mr. Moseff himself didn't do every stroke of the work in building this bridge; but Mr. Moseff bore the brunt of the criticism, of the responsibility. And he had to take it! He arrived in Seattle, Washington, one night worried, tired, exhausted. At eleven o'clock that night, Doug Welch got him on the telephone, waking him from a deep sleep, badly needed. Naturally, Mr. Moseff was indignant. First, because of the rude awakening at an unreasonable hour. Second, newspaper reporters had been ridiculing him—and he had vowed that he would never again talk to any of them.

But Doug Welch said something in his first sentence that made Mr. Moseff sit up in bed and talk to him for three quarters of an hour. Here is what he said: "Mr. Moseff, you are the most famous designer of bridges in this world today. A lot of people don't know beans about designing bridges and so they have condemned and ridiculed you. My paper feels that it is time you had an opportunity to tell your side of the story."

It was just these few words of sincere appreciation and understanding that turned an angry man into a friend, that cleared up a lot of things for a lot of people who had not understood an engineer's problems. And you and I and Joe Doakes can all achieve miracles in human relations by honestly trying to see things from the other person's point of view.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

WITH THE RECIPROCAL trade agreement fight out of the way and debate on the military arms pact virtually certain of passage, the most important major piece of legislation before the congress appeared to be the farm program.

Indications are that the administration agreement on the Anderson compromise bill was for the purpose only of getting the measure out of the senate agricultural committee in some agreeable form and that an attempt will be made on the floor to amend the measure to include some features of the Brannan plan. President Truman's recent speech at Omaha indicates that the Democrats have not given up hope of including at least a part of the Brannan plan in their farm program at this session.

At the present time it appears that the farm program will come before the senate for debate within the next two weeks and then will come a reconciliation with the house-passed Gore bill in conference committee. There are four major farm programs still before the congress. Here, briefly, is what each program does:

The Aiken law, scheduled to go into effect January 1, 1950, sets up a new parity formula with adjustment for the last 10 years figuring price averages, support prices, on a sliding scale of 60 to 90 per cent of parity, depending on supply, and makes mandatory price support on eight basic crops.

The Anderson bill increases the Aiken parity formula by 6 per cent by including cost of hired farm labor, support prices on a sliding scale of 75 to 90 per cent of parity depending on supply, and provides for mandatory support of 12 crops.

The Gore bill, passed by the house, uses the same parity formula in use since 1933, supports 12 commodities at 90 per cent of parity and 10 at 80 to 90 per cent of parity.

The Brannan plan allows prices on perishable products to fall to the supply-and-demand level with the government making up the difference to farmers by production payments, provides a new parity support standard based on income, provides price support at 100 per cent of the support standard and contains eligibility restrictions favoring family sized farms and gives consumers the benefit of the lower supply-and-demand prices.

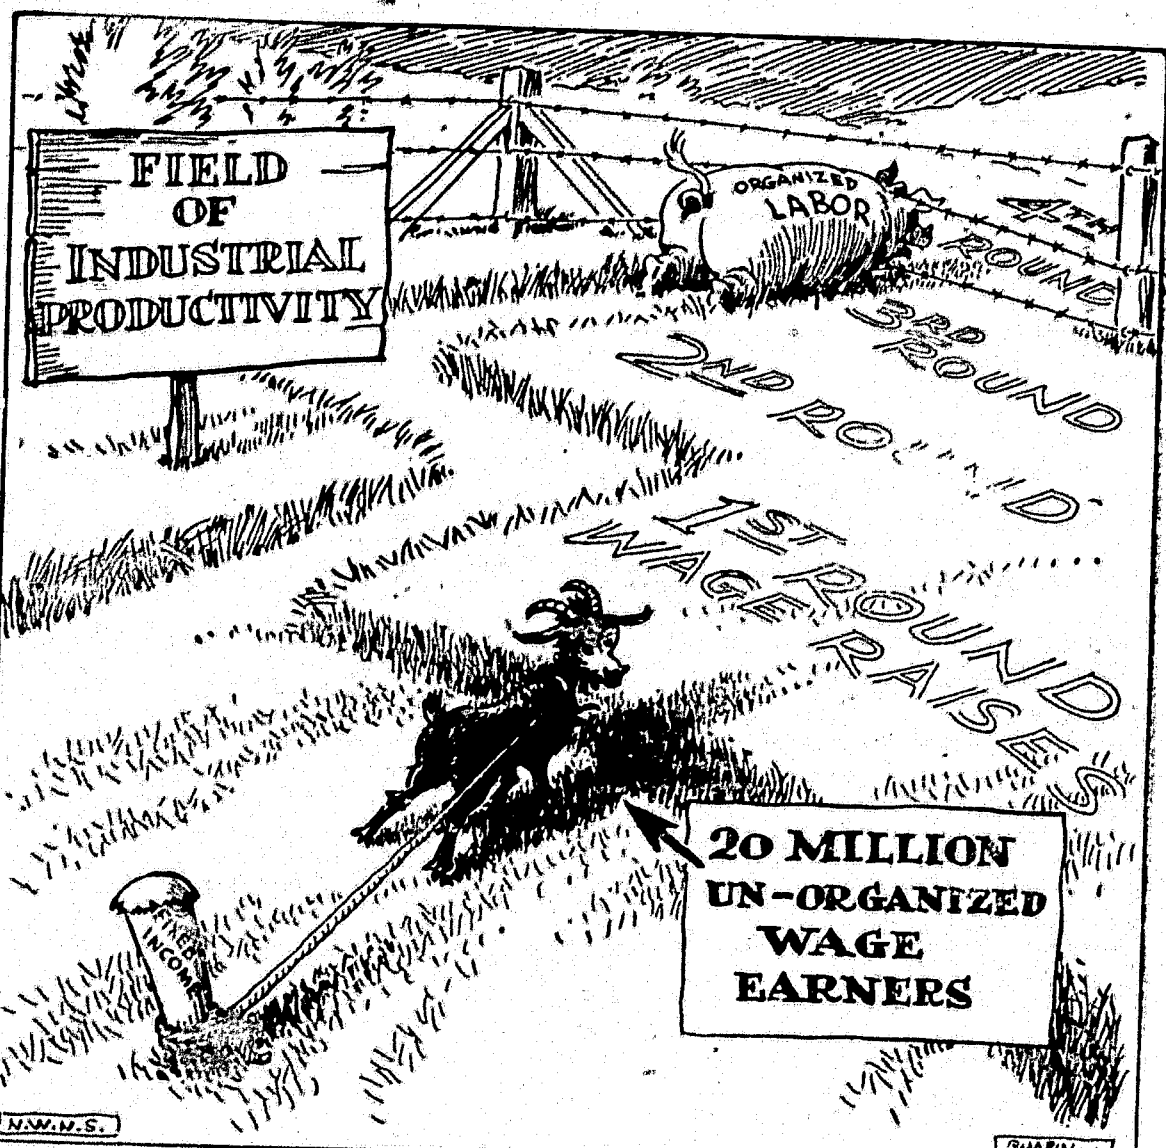

Democratic majority leader Scott Lucas of Illinois has announced that he is definitely opposed to the Gore bill and has expressed the hope that a trial run of the Brannan plan may be tried to the detriment of the farm program when it reaches the senate floor.

In the meantime, agricultural leaders here were appraising the effects of the three major conference here in Washington out of which came the announcement of the devaluation of the British pound. Of particular interest was the agreement that Britain could use $175 million of Marshall plan dollars for purchase of Canadian wheat and the British commitment to buy an additional $30,000,000 of United States wheat. The thinking is that since Canada is our best customer we will get back the $175,000,000 in Canadian purchases of United States commodities. Britain also committed to purchase directly eight to ten million dollars worth of perishable agricultural commodities in the United States. So government officials see no overall loss in the total volume of U.S. wheat or other agricultural exports as a result of the three-power conference.

New government figures on farm incomes will provide a guide to business firms in rural areas where a large part of their business is selling to farmers. For instance the figures show that the income of wheat farmers is down 35 per cent under last year; dairy income is down 17 per cent; poultry, down 2 per cent; meat and vegetable, down 15 per cent; tobacco, down 7 per cent; soybean, down 30 per cent; feed grain growers, up 10 per cent and cotton growers, up 18 per cent.

Liberal elements in the government and elsewhere finally won a victory when the senate after many months confirmed the nomination of John Carson of Michigan as a member of the federal trade commission. Republicans declared that Carson was not a Republican and that his liberal tendencies and his former connection with the cooperative movement sought to bar him from the job to which the president had named him.

THE GOAT

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY often has been accused of having bootlicked the labor unions ever since F.D.R. first ran for the presidency. But it wasn't the unions—it was the bosses! The party figured that the bosses could lead them by the nose; and to make sure, they passed laws and made rulings which gave these bosses almost life and death power over the ordinary members.

The game worked until a patriotic congress—the 80th—passed a law—the Taft-Hartley law—which gave back the freedom and dignity which was an American citizen he was entitled to receive. The big labor dictators went wild; they threatened and cajoled, and scared the incumbent administration into its attitude against the Taft-Hartley law.

So, the Taft-Hartley law having been sidestepped, the labor big shots are again on the throne and it is going to require another patriotic congress and/or a Republican president to bring these haughty dictators down to our level.

At the moment of this writing the bootlicked hens are coming home to roost, and they're roosting all over 12 million union laborers as well as on 125 million of us common folks. We all have to suffer cold and hunger when John L. Lewis waves his expensive cigar at the poor saps who together with us are his slaves. And don't stop with Lewis; there are Murray and Bridges and several other foreign importations. The "blamees" for this degrading situation are those Republicans who prefer golf, fishing, etc. to voting; those who believe that "my one vote won't make any difference"; those of the 12 million union members who are still unaware that the Taft-Hartley law gives them back much of their freedom; the stupid members of the Republican high-command who wouldn't even take the trouble to refute Mr. Truman's election balcony, about the 80th congress. But most of all it is the fault of the American farmers. They believed every promise that was made them and they didn't even take the trouble to count the consequences to themselves if those promises were kept.

JACOBS - CRANE

In a candlelight ceremony at her home on Forest Avenue, Orono, Miss Janice MacGregor Crane became the bride of Dana Holbrook Jacobs on Friday evening, the seventh of October. The Rev. Charles O'Connor of the University of Maine Christian Association performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of thirty-eight relatives and intimate friends. Miss Dorothy M. Ansell of Dexter attended the bride and Paul Smith of Orono was best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a blue chiffon velvet gown with silver accessories and a hair band of white asters. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli and a silk and lace handkerchief carried by her mother at her wedding, and by her great grandmother.

The maid of honor wore silver brocade taffeta with silver accessories. Her hair band was of deep rose asters matching in color her bouquet of rose gladioli.

The mother of the bride wore a wine crepe dress with a corsage of gold gladioli, and Mrs. Jacobs, mother of the groom, wore blue and white crepe with a pale peach gladioli corsage. Candlesabra, white gladioli, white and bronze chrysanthemums decorated the house.

After the traditional first "slice of bride's cake" had been cut by Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs, the cake was served by Mrs. Richard Emmons of Bethel. Mrs. William Schumpf in charge of the dining room was assisted by Mrs. Richard Emmons, Mrs. Fred Robie, Mrs. Paul Smith, and Miss Norma MacLauchlan of Machias. Miss Beatrice Young of Portland greeted the guests and had charge of the guest book.

For traveling the bride wore a grey ensemble with red accessories and a smoky grey and red gladioli corsage.

Mrs. Jacobs, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy F. Crane, of Orono, graduated from Gould Academy, and the University of Maine in 1946. She also studied at the University of Habana, Cuba.

Mr. Jacobs, son of Mrs. Margaret Flint Jacobs and the late Lester Warner Jacobs of West Baldwin, is a graduate of Fryeburg Academy.

Cleaning clothes at home with gasoline has caused many fires, the National Board of Fire Underwriters reports. Gasoline should never be used for any purpose around the home, the experts say. They suggest that cleaning fluids bearing the label of Underwriters' Laboratories be used if home cleaning is absolutely necessary.

An army of more than 800,000 municipal fire fighters is maintained on a full-paid 24-hour basis to guard against fire. This is 150,000 men, larger than the entire United States Army in 1940.

"EASY DOES IT"

By HELEN HALE

USE A SOFT CLOTH or sponge for removing soap curd and lint that has remained in your washing machine tub, agitator or suction cups. These are difficult to remove when dry, but wipe off easily while still wet.

To cut down on washing, use tissue in place of towels when wiping hands after rinsing them. Use tissue for removing lipstick. Keep blankets clean longer by using a wide turnover on the top sheet, or with a blanket cover.

After using the iron, cool it and wipe with a damp cloth. When necessary, use a mild abrasive and wipe off with a clean cloth.

Save wear and tear on iron by not running it over zippers, buttons, hooks or other hard articles.

Time can be saved from handkerchiefs, napkins and small flat articles by ironing them out.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Lamb en Brochette (Serves 3)

- 1 pound lamb steak, sliced 1/4 inch thick
- 1 1/2 tablespoons cooking oil
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1/2 onion, minced
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 pound fresh mushrooms

Cut lamb in 1-inch squares. Combine oil, lemon juice, onion and salt. Pour over lamb and let stand for several hours. Drain lamb and arrange on metal skewers alternately with mushroom caps. Place 4 inches below moderate broiler heat and broil 12 to 15 minutes, turning several times.

Hot and piling together. Then let each one quickly and set them in piles of five. Press iron heavily on each pile.

The sole plate of an electric iron should be rubbed once a month or so with paraffin or bees wax. Wipe the iron off on paper or cloth.

Remove padding on ironing boards and ironers occasionally. To stiff or reverse their position. Replace when necessary. Wash or change the muslin cover frequently enough to keep the ironed materials immaculate.

Successful Parenthood

BY

MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS

Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

THE other day I caught up with a friend on the way to the corner bus station. She had just finished reading a letter and as we walked along she tore it into many pieces. "That was from my sister Martha," she remarked. "And I wouldn't dare let my brother see it—she certainly blessed him out."

I was reminded of another friend whose brother and sisters are her dearest companions and who had once told me, "I don't think any one of us has ever written a letter which the whole family couldn't read. Nor do we write veiled criticism, such as, 'Wouldn't you think Mary (or Paul) would have done this and so.' We've had some disagreements, of course, but they are out in the open—we don't criticize behind each others backs."

In trying to analyze what her parents had done to help bring about this good feeling among their children, one thing my friend said I realized that most of the quarreling my brother and I did was because I was always getting my feelings hurt and crying. This must have intensified his annoyance with me because he had a cry baby for a little sister. Yet I am certain that this fault of mine was never mentioned to him—just as he was never pictured to me as a "bad boy" because he couldn't resist punching me now and then.

Yes, putting labels on a child's shortcomings is a bad idea. Most of them are outgrown anyway—at least that happy outcome is what you, as parents, are working toward. So why have the other children grow up with the impression that brother Tom was a bully and sister Imogene not always truthful, and that the little sister was greedy?

Try instead, to keep alive the memory of how Tom jumped into the lake, when he could barely swim, to rescue his sister's kitten. And how Imogene tore into a neighbor boy three times her size because he called her brother names. Of course, a certain amount of family frankness is good, too—what older brother could resist telling his sister that she has on too much lipstick, and what girl could keep still if she didn't like the character of her brother's first "girl friend."

There is bound to be a certain amount of squabbling among children in a family, but it doesn't have to leave scars if each quarrel is settled on its own merits and no one child tagged with being always wrong. See, we aren't saying that we can prevent childish fights by stressing your children's good points to each other. But you can minimize the danger of letting lifelong animosities grow up between them, and build instead enduring love and friendship among your children.

This may seem too far to look ahead when Tommy is kicking Imogene's doll and she is tearing up his electric train tracks, but take it from one who knows—in later years there is no greater comfort than the love and backing of your family circle.

Practically no deer have been seen around the fields in Newry this year, but 14 bear have been taken from the Sunday River and Relys region.

Everett Ferrin has been quite ill the past week with a bad cold. He is much better at this writing. Kenneth Vall did his chores a few days last week until he was able to get out around.

The following editorial, which appeared in the August 27 issue of the Gravesend and Dartford (Kent, England) Reporter, seems to show that government policies in Great Britain do not have the full approval of all concerned. It also indicates a rather outspoken free press in England with opinions as freely expressed as in this country.

WHILE ROME BURNS

The Government still maintains their sphinx-like attitude towards the economic crisis. Meanwhile, as the Washington talks grow nearer, public opinion both at home and in America is becoming increasingly restive at the absence of any signs that Ministers are prepared to grapple with the underlying causes of our difficulties. It is all very well to discount American criticism, because it is voiced by people who appear to be hostile to Socialism. Such considerations have not so far interfered with the generous flow of dollars which were intended to help Europe to stand on its own feet. But it is perfectly understandable that people should become exasperated when they see their money being put to uses which will not help to produce the intended result.

The truth that the present leaders will not face or cannot understand is that under-production and over-taxation are combining to undermine the value of the £. It is too much to hope, therefore, that they will listen to the solemn warning given them by the Federation of British Industries. In the plainest terms the Government is told that "the menacing increase in State expenditure constitutes the basic inflationary influence in the whole economy. It bears most heavily upon production costs, and is one of the most serious handicaps to the future of British trade and to the living standards."

The diagnosis of our troubles has been made so often and so clearly that none, save the ignorant and wilfully blind, can be left in any doubt as to the nature and causes of our problems. The Federation of British Industries reiterates the steps to be taken: Reduction of taxes and Government expenditure, less rigid planning, fewer controls, more competition and scope for individual initiative. But our leaders turn a deaf ear to such things. They prefer to delude themselves, and as many people as will still believe them, that they have created social security and full employment and that therefore everything in the garden is lovely. What they cannot realize is that the all-giving British Government will soon be broke at the present rate of progress.

A century and a half passed between the time Caxton set up the first printing press in England and the publication of the first English newspaper.

Lots of things move besides a deer. That motion could be another hunter.

You know folks, sittin' under a tree once in a full moon and thinkin'—not just sittin'—could pay more dividends than putting in all the time reading how we are to be saved via one new trick law to be cooked up by Uncle Harry and his boys.

And as you sit and ponder you will maybe become a little dubious as to whether you have been as smart as you thought or have been a sucker all the time, as you look back on how you been voting. For my ownself I got mad years ago when it was the fashion for the guy making the speech to say, "friends, I will now tell you all about it in simple words so everybody will understand." That got me—me, needing kindergarden language—insult, I calls it. And still do.

But to proceed—the guy who is to be hurt worst via a Big and Fancy U. S. A. Govt., is the same kind of guy who was hurt most via Herr Hitler, and J. Stalin, and Mr.

Attlee—Mr Average Guy—us—we will be the goat.

So, the next good day that comes along, go out there and sit. And while pondering, maybe you can al-so unravel how-come a limber mayor allows a picket to clutter up the sidewalk and maybe throw rocks—but you can't do likewise.

Yours with the low down,
